CAPT. THIGPEN'S DECLENSION—AN APPEAL TO OUR FARMERS.

It is with regret we see it announced that Captain Thigpen has declined the appointment of honorary Commissioner to the Vienna exposition, recently tendered him by the President.

We desire to see the State agriculturally represented at Vienna, and for that reason we were extremely anxious that Capt. Thigpen would accept the position of Commissioner.

We published in our last article from the State Agricultural Journal, announcing that Prof. Kerr would leave for Vienna about the 23rd inst., and calling upon the farmers to send to him by the 18th inst., such specimens of the productions of their farms as would be suitable and creditable for exhibition. Inasmuch as Captain Thigpen is unable to attend and represent the farmers of North Carolina, Prof. Kerr will undertake to do so, and he "invites and specially requests that specimens of corn in the year, rice in the sheaf, and in general all our farm products, cotton, grasses, tobacco, &c." be addressed to him at Raleigh, marked for "Vienna Industrial Exposition."

We trust that this request will be responded to by the farmers in every section of the State.

Prof. Kerr will take with him specimens of the botanical, mineralogical and geological wealth of the State. Her agricultural resources should also speak through him to the assembled representatives of the world.

Our farmers, by all means, should have specimens of their products at Vienna. The exhibition from this State will not be complete, unless our agricultural department is full and creditable. Foreigners, contemplating immigration, would be apt to inquire particularly after our farm productions. If the State makes only a meagre showing in this respect, they will not be able to understand why it is we make such loud boasts of the agricultural advantages of North Carolina.

ONE GOOD ACT OF THE PRESIDENT.

The act of the President in depriving Gen. Davis of the glory of executing Jack without Judge, Jury, or drum-head Court-Martial, deserves commendation. We give him credit for that such humanity at least, which is in striking contrast with Davis' conduct.

The opinion of Attorney General Williams, telegraphed in full in our last issue, is that the Modocs may be tried by a military commission for any offenses they may have committed against the recognized laws of war, and if found guilty they will be subject to such penalties as such laws prescribe.

Gen. Davis would have hanged them, after they had surrendered as prisoners, without a trial. Such wild justice is unknown to our laws, and such conduct on the part of a military officer has been properly rebuked by the Government.

We are glad the President has performed one act which we can endorse.

The military commission which is to try Jack will, of course, find him guilty of a violation of the rules of civilized warfare, in that he murdered Gen. Canby at a peace conference, while bearing a flag of truce.

After he is convicted, it is for the President to say, whether or not he will be executed.

If a full investigation is had of all the wrongs and outrages which have been practiced towards the Indians by Government officials, it will be found that there are many extenuating circumstances to plead in behalf of the Indian excesses and crimes.

In an article entitled "Hurrah for Grant," the last Richmond Whig has the following:

"Every humane man in the country will, we think, applaud the authorities in Washington for staying the uplifted hand of the brutal Davis. The blood of these poor persecuted children of the forest would have cried aloud to heaven for vengeance had it been shed as the sanguinary Davis proposed. We have no earthly sympathy with the diabolical act of the treacherous Modoc chief; but with Captain Jack, the representative of an almost extinct race, who have been hunted and wounded from pillow to post, we confess we have great sympathy."

IMPORTANT BANKRUPT DECISION BY JUDGE DICK.

The last New North State promises to publish in full in its next issue the decision of a very important question by Judge Dick, of the United States District Court for Western North Carolina, touching the rights of bankrupts in the matter of homesteads, etc. The following are some of the points made in Judge Dick's decision:

1. He affirms the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Missouri in Beckerford v. N. B. R. 59, declaring that the homestead exemption law is not destroyed by the State exemptions allowed in the fourteenth section of the bankrupt act; and decides that the amendatory acts of June 8, 1872, and March 3, 1873, do not change the legal principles announced in the case.

2. That a judgment lien is not a vested right which the Constitution protects from a reasonable alteration by legislative action.

3. He is inclined to doubt whether the recent case of Gunn vs. Barry, in the United States Supreme Court, overrules the case of Hill vs. Kessler 63, N. C. R. 4. He decides that the case of Gunn vs. Barry does not affect the homestead rights as declared in the bankrupt law, as amended by the act of March, 3 1873. Judge Dick's ability as a Judge is nothing to brag of. He was on our Supreme Court bench when Justice Reade delivered the opinion of the Court, in Hill vs. Kessler, to the effect the re-traction homestead laws are constitutional. Justice Dick concurred in this decision. He is now inclined to doubt whether the recent case of Gunn vs. Barry, in the United States Supreme Court, overrules the case of Hill vs. Kessler. But it must be remembered that Judge Dick was a member of the Court that held with Justice Reade, in affirming the principle of the constitutionality of homestead laws against debts contracted previously to the passage of such laws.

Judge Dick is more conversant with the beauties of the Scripture than with the intricacies of Coke upon Littleton.

ATTACK ON THE CAPTIVE MODOC BY TWO INFURATED FEMALES.

The dispatches to-day give an account of an exciting occurrence that has just taken place in Davis' camp. That officer sent for a number of settlers to identify the stolen property in possession of the captives. During a colloquy in regard to the death and robbery last August of two white citizens, Seiera and Boody, the wives of the murdered men, became terribly excited and lost all self-control. The former drew a pistol and, in the expressive language of the dispatch, "went for Steamboat Frank," while "Mrs. Boody drew a knife and dashed at Hooker Jim."

Gen. Davis, seeing the desperate turn affairs had taken, threw himself into the combat to separate the belligerents and received a wound in his hand from Mrs. Boody's knife.

Steamboat Frank and Hooker Jim are two renegade Modocs, who will probably be pardoned by the Government as a reward for their treason to Jack. They are notorious for their crimes and murders, but having turned State's evidence, they have strong hopes of amnesty.

MORE VANDALISM AT CHAPEL HILL.

From a gentleman just from Chapel Hill, we learn that recent acts of Vandalism have been committed on the University buildings and grounds at Chapel Hill.

Last Winter, Col. Saunders, one of the Editors of the Wilmington Journal, gave a detailed statement of the wanton and shameful abuse of the property of the institution, and his letters were copied in many of the newspapers at the time.

We learn that the condition of the University property now is even more deplorable than when described by Col. Saunders. Fresh acts of injury and pillage are being constantly perpetrated, such as breaking out the windows, defacing the buildings, cutting down trees, and the like.

The Grand Jury of Orange should look into these outrages and have the proper parties indicted.

President Pool is primarily responsible on account of his gross negligence, for the vandalic work at Chapel Hill.

THE RADICAL ORGAN ON POOL AND ABBOTT.

"The bona fide laboring men of the District will soon issue an address to their friends throughout the country regarding the late division in the National Labor Council, in which they will expose the machinations of Messrs. Pool, Redstone, and other bogus mechanics and soft-handed, so-called laboring men."

The above is from the National Republican, the organ of the Administration at Washington. In the same issue of that paper, we find the following editorial:

ONCE MORE.—We have been called upon to expose the duplicity of ex-Senator Pool on several occasions, and have done so from the purest motives, based upon a desire to free the workmen, with whom he has attempted to associate himself, from the machinations of a designing demagogue. The result has been a free discussion of his character, and his consequent repudiation by the people whom he attempted to dupe. And it has been followed by a discussion in his native State of the several charges we have made against him. In short, our articles have been a prolific source of comment by the North Carolina press. The majority of the journals of that State have sided with us, while others—notable the Wilmington Post—have denounced him. Outside of North Carolina, however, from Maine to California, the unanimous verdict of the press has been with us and our friends, the laboring men. We notice in the connection that his defenders are, as might be expected, men of his own kind. For instance, the owner of the Wilmington Post, like Pool, an ex-Senator, is worn out politician, who has had his day, and is now only fit for work as the figure head of some old woman's benevolent society. With the power of a great and victorious party behind him he succeeded at first in elevating himself to the United States Senate and subsequently forced that party into many disagreeable emergencies by its mistaken desire to keep him in his position. So long as he represented the party we sustained him ourselves; and now that he has reached his proper level we intend to show him that we can keep him there. We want no more of his imbecility in public affairs any more than we want Pool's demagogism. We admit that he is less harmful than Pool; but that is because of his lack of ability to do harm. So far as he has been able he has invariably aided Pool, and as the representative of the State on the National Executive Committee had something to do with the money which was used in the efforts to return Pool to the Senate. He still adheres to Pool's fortunes, and with the admiration always rendered by imbecility even to the smallest modicum of intelligence, sees nothing in Pool's management of last summer's campaign which deserves reproach. It would be wonderful if he did when that management was Pool.

We do not know whether the Post is owned by Abbott or not. Its Editor, Major Mann, belongs to that better class of politicians among the Republicans that have not entirely lost the confidence and respect of their opponents. Although a firm supporter of the Administration, he does not exhibit that bitter political malignity and hatred that characterize the editorials of many Southern Radical journals. Maj. Mann belongs to the conservative school of Republicans, and although a Northern man he cannot be classed with the itinerant class of office-seekers who have been so aptly termed carpet-baggers.

A letter from the Fiji Islands reports the massacre by the mountain savages of a white family named Bierns and some Polynesian laborers, making in all sixteen persons. Some of the bodies were found horribly mutilated; others had been carried off for a cannibal feast.

The key to a lock in the Springfield, Mass., jail being lost, all the expert locksmiths in the town tried unavailingly to open it for several hours, until a burglarious inmate came to their aid and picked it without difficulty.

In England, where only bituminous coal is burned in open fireplaces, they talk of introducing the American stoves. A London correspondent remarks, shudderingly: "Revenge may be sweet, but this is cruel."

Nast is still in London, and has been entertained by the Punch staff. It is said that he is somewhat disgusted with the treatment he received after the service he performed during the late campaign.

The Atchison Globe declares that even in Kansas the day has passed when a notoriously bad man can be elected to any responsible office by the votes of the people.

Mayer Stokely, of Philadelphia, has given orders that the law prohibiting the sale of oysters in that city in the months of June, July and August be strictly enforced.
